

The Farmer

The man who cultivates crops is a farmer. The farmer is the most important person in our country. He cultivates rice is the main food of our people.

He grows paddy to give rice to the people. The farmer is an able person. He works hard and loves his work.

He gets up early and goes to his field he ploughs and prepares the field to sow paddy. After about 20 days he uproots the young paddy plants and replant them in the field. By doing this he expects a better harvest.

In olden days paddy cultivation was done only in one season. Today the agricultural department provides the necessary instructions for paddy cultivation.
